THE NEW AMERICAN ORGANS AND PIANOFORTES.—From the Queen and Court Chronicle, May 29th, 1869:—"The want of a small, compact, and cheap form of Organ has long been felt in this country. The manufacturers have most successfully endeavoured to produce an instrument of extraordinary portability, possessing the true, full richness of tone for which the pipe Organ has so long been celebrated. In the construction of the 'AMERICAN PIANOFORTES' the skill of the iron-founder has been united with that of the musical instrument maker, and, as in the case of the 'ORGANS,' great power combined with condensed mechanism is the result, thus admitting of an upright Piano being so strung as to equal a powerful grand in volume and quality of tone. There are many novel and curious features in these instruments; we therefore recommend those who interest themselves in matters musical to call at BREAVINGTON AND SONS, 309, Regent-street, and see for themselves."
